

Mamluk Pottery: Material Culture and History in the Middle Islamic Period

13 June 2016

Organised by Professor Achim Lichtenberger (Ruhr-Universität Bochum)
and Professor Rubina Raja (Aarhus University)

Programme (replaces programme in Book of Abstracts)
8:30-9:00	Registration and coffee
9:00-9:15	Welcome and introduction Achim Lichtenberger, Ruhr-Universität Bochum Rubina Raja, Aarhus University
9:15-9:45	Middle Islamic Jerash: New evidence and perspectives Achim Lichtenberger, Ruhr-Universität Bochum Rubina Raja, Aarhus University
9:45-10:10	Discussion
10:10-10:30	Break
10:30-11:00	The medieval installations from the Zeus temple area (Jerash, Jordan) Jacques Seigne, Institut Français du Proche-Orient Laurent Tholbecq, Université Libre de Bruxelles
11:00-11:25	Discussion
11:25-11:55	A Middle Islamic hamlet in Jerash: Its architectural development Georg Kalaitzoglou, Ruhr-Universität Bochum
11:55-12:20	Discussion
12:20-13:15	Lunch
13:15-14:10	Middle Islamic ceramics in context from the NW quarter of Jerash Alex Peterson, Aarhus University
14:10-14:35	Discussion
14:35-15:05	Interpreting Middle Islamic finds “out of context”: The Northwest quarter evidence Heike Möller, Aarhus University
15:05-15:30	Discussion
15:30-15:50	Break
15:50-16:35	General discussion
16:35	Closing remarks and end of workshop
17:00	Speakers’ dinner at Restaurant Komfur, Guldsmedegade 38, 8000 Aarhus C

Joint workshop between the Danish National Research Foundation’s Centre of Excellence for Urban Network Evolutions (UrbNet), the Danish-German Jerash Northwest Quarter Project and Ceramics in Context (funded by the Carlsberg Foundation).